Art Unit: 1761

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hornstein in view of Ashurst for the reasons set forth in rejecting the claims in the last Office action. The amendments to the claims are not seen to influence the conclusion of unpatentability previously set forth.

Hornstein discloses a process for identification of flavor mixtures comprising selecting a flavor, analyzing the flavor by subjecting isolates and fractions of the flavor to headspace analysis, and using sensory evaluation to evaluate the results (see entire document, especially pages 72, 75, and 83-92).

The claims differ as to the specific use of the data to prepare a flavor.

Ashurst discloses flavor manufacture based on analysis of flavor materials (see pages 122-125).

It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art, at the time the invention was made, to use prepare a flavor as taught by Ashurst from the information provided by Hornstein because the use of flavor analysis to product flavors is conventional in the art.

Applicant's arguments filed May 19, 2004 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Application/Control Number: 10/023,178

Art Unit: 1761

Applicant argues that the prior art does not teach introducing a flavor mixture into another matrix, comparing two headspace analyses, or adjusting a flavor on the basis of such a comparison.

Hornstein teaches a process for identification of flavor by subjecting isolates and fractions of a flavor to headspace analysis, combining isolates or fractions from separate batch operations for further fractionation and analysis, and using sensory evaluation to evaluate the results (see entire document, especially pages 72 and 83). Hornstein also teaches analysis of a flavor extract under two or three sets of conditions (page 83). Hornstein teaches multiple analyses using gas chromatography to obtain a final analysis. Ashurst discloses flavor manufacture based on analysis of flavor materials.

Applicant uses known steps to obtain expected results.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
